Share Health Southeast Georgia, on Behalf of the Wayne County Recovery Coalition, Awarded RYAM Foundation Grant

Share Health Southeast Georgia, on behalf of the Wayne County Recovery Coalition (WCRC), has been awarded a $1,500 mini grant from the RYAM Foundation to support youth substance misuse prevention efforts in Wayne County. The funding will allow Share Health to purchase billboard space in Wayne County to promote drug prevention messaging and encourage healthy choices among local youth.

The project, titled WCRC Prevention Billboard, is part of WCRC's ongoing work through the Drug-Free Communities Support Program (DFCSP) to address youth substance misuse and strengthen prevention efforts throughout Wayne County. Since receiving the DFCSP award in 2023, Share Health Southeast Georgia and WCRC have focused on preventing the misuse of alcohol, nicotine, and prescription drugs through education, awareness, and community collaboration.

The billboard campaign will focus specifically on youth vaping, an ongoing concern among young people. The billboard will provide a highly visible and consistent prevention message to students, families, and community members.

Founded in 2015, Share Health Southeast Georgia is a nonprofit organization dedicated to strengthening the region's capacity to address unmet healthcare needs across its 16-county service area. The organization provides capacity-building support, philanthropic investment, and advocacy for community partners while collaborating closely with public health agencies and other organizations to improve health outcomes.

The Wayne County Recovery Coalition is committed to reducing substance misuse and promoting healthier communities through prevention, education, and collaboration. Through partnerships with local schools, community organizations, public health agencies, and other stakeholders, WCRC works to build a stronger, healthier future for Wayne County youth and families.
